CHARLIE

October 15, 2020

Dear Charlie,

As an endurance fitness coach, I understand the fundamentals of teaching. From the best student to the worst, the top priority is to ensure they all have the same opportunity to learn and grow, from the icebreaker meeting to the final project. As a prior student of yours, I am aware of your teaching style, and I know what you expect.

Having a coaching business helps me help you. Communicating with endurance athletes requires an energy that will excite them to push themselves past their limiting beliefs and into a new realm of potential. I hypothesize that students function the same way in a classroom environment, especially one that challenges creativity and imagination instead of knowledge. I would enjoy putting to this hypothesis to the test.

Sincerely,
Charles Richardson
